To the Public.

I HAVE THIS DAY DISPOSED OF MY DIAMOND, Watch and Jewelry business, at the corner of First and Morrison streets to Mr. ALBERT FELDENHEIMER, who has been in my employ for the past eighteen years. In retiring from the business I have been engaged in for the past seventeen years in Portland, I wish to express my grateful acknowledgments and thanks to the public for the patronage bestowed upon me and take pleasure in recommending my successor as one in every way worthy of public confidence. I will still be found at my old place, where I will be pleased to see my friends. And I especially urge those indebted to me to settle as early as possible. Bills will be receipted by myself or Mr. Albert Feldenheimer.
B. L. STONE

Portland, Oregon, March 6, 1885.

Referring to the above, I desire in assuming the proprietorship of this establishment to say that I will make every effort to maintain the high reputation Mr. Stone has given to it and will endeavor to merit the liberal patronage he has enjoyed. The store will retain the name "STONE'S JEWELRY STORE," by which it has been so favorably known.

I have perfected arrangements to import my stock direct, thus saving the commission and profits of middlemen for the benefit of my customers. A large invoice of new goods will immediately be made to the already large stock and no pains will be spared to keep even with the times in the matter of variety of styles and prices.

It is one of the best remedies ever offered to the public, and as it is prepared with the greatest care, as a specific for certain diseases, it is no wonder that it should be more effectual than hastily written and carelessly prepared prescriptions. ## General Grant's Condition Shows no Material Change.

HOW THE DAY AND NIGHT PASSED.

The Mormon Conference Issues an Epistle to the Faithful Complaining of Injustice and Defending Polygamy—Eastern Notes

NEW YORK, April 5—10:30 A. M.—General Grant has been very comfortable all the morning. Has taken his nourishment regularly and well. Pulse 72, temperature 98.4. He appears cheerful and is now sitting in his easy chair drawn into the sun near the window. He says he has no unusual pain.
J. H. DOUGLAS, M. D.

1:30 P. M.—General Grant has been quiet and well all the morning. He has taken his nourishment regularly and well. His condition is the same as at the last report.
J. H. DOUGLAS, M. D.

3:10 P. M.—At the consultation at 2 P. M. Drs. Barker, Sands, Shrady and Douglas were present. The throat was examined by strong reflected sunlight. It was agreed that there was an improvement in the local condition. A continuation of the anodyne was approved, and the treatment pursued during the last week was recommended. The general is now dozing before a wood fire and is very comfortable; pulse 76, temperature 99¼ degrees.
J. H. DOUGLAS, M. D.

5:15 P. M.—General Grant has just awakened from a short nap and expresses himself as feeling very comfortable. He wishes it stated that he is very much touched and very grateful for the prayerful sympathy and interest manifested for him by his friends and by those who heretofore have not been regarded as such. He says, "I desire the good will of all, whether heretofore friends or not."
GEORGE F. SHRADY, M. D.

A QUIET DAY.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Last night was unusually quiet and uneventful in the neighborhood of the Grant household. Nothing disturbed the silence save the sound of two policemen walking to and fro in front of the residence. The night was cold and clear, and the only movement noticed in the house was that of Harrison, the colored attendant, who drew up the shade at 5:15 P. M. The general must have passed a very quiet night, as no commotion was observable at any time after midnight.

The cheery sunlight of Easter morning was admitted to General Grant's room at 9 o'clock, when the shades were rolled up to their highest point and the lace curtains were looped back. About 9 o'clock Dr. Douglas appeared at the bay window of the general's room, stroking his gray beard and looking complacent and unconcerned, from which the persons who had even at that early hour gathered in the street opposite concluded all was well within. The library windows were opened wide and on the upper floors the crisp air was suffered to come in.

Cyrus W. Field, with a bunch of flowers in his hand, called at 9:15 and was admitted. He remained but a few minutes, and remarked as he left that the tenacity of the general was marvellous. There could be no hope of recovery, but the struggle was a brave one. Half an hour later a large box of flowers sent from Washington was delivered by messenger. A message from the Boston M. E. Conference was delivered at the house at 10 o'clock addressed to Dr. Newman, who was not at that hour present.

All the daily papers of the city were sent into the house in the morning. Soon after Mrs. Sartoris, Mrs. Fred Grant and Jesse Grant gathered in a group in the library, and while Colonel Grant's wife sat beside Jesse, Mrs. Sartoris leaned over the shoulders of both and the journals of the morning were examined, while Dr. Douglas sat at the library desk writing a bulletin.

Senator Chaffee made his morning visit at 10:35. He stated that the general was calm as if about going for a drive, but the fact could not be disguised that the cancer was constantly developing and there could be no hope for permanent improvement.

GENERAL BADEAU'S BELIEF.

During the morning General Badeau expressed a belief that the general might endure much longer and he might linger for days, but that the local difficulty was not now so much to be feared as constitutional results of the disease. The general was keenly aware of the hopelessness of his case and desired to die.

Jesse Grant strolled out at 10:50, and five minutes later Dr. Ulysses arrived at the house. Benjamin H. Field and Sidney Dillon called during the forenoon and Dr. Newman was admitted at noon. As Dr. Barker left the house after the consultation he said General Grant was quiet but growing stronger.

"What will be the probable length of the general's struggle?" was asked Dr. Barker.

"I wish I could tell you," he said, shaking his head and becoming very grave.

Ex-Secretary of State Hamilton Fish and wife were driven to the house at 10 minutes past 1. Mr. Fish sent a card to the general, but did not alight from his carriage. While the footman was delivering Mr. Fish's card at the door, Roscoe Conkling and Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the World, drove up. Mr. Conkling entered the house but soon returned and engaged in a chat for five minutes with Fish. Mr. Conkling, in response to an inquiry, begged to be excused from saying anything about General Grant's condition.

Jesse Seligman called during the afternoon and saw General Grant. Secretary of War Endicott called and left his card, after making inquiries for the general's condition.

At the time Dr. Shrady sat down to write the 5:15 bulletin General Badeau and General Grant were speaking of the kindness of so many people in calling. Dr. Shrady turned to General Grant and remarked that the general was so well it was hard work to prepare bulletins, and then Grant detailed the 5:15 bulletin, the doctor by the general's desire quoting him in the first person in the last sentence as indicated.

RESTING COMFORTABLY.

During the evening 66th street, in the vicinity of General Grant's house, was unusually quiet. Dr. Douglass called to relieve Shrady at 8, but the latter did not leave until half past 8, just after issuing a reassuring bulletin. He said that there was nothing to add; that the general was resting comfortably.

When ex-Senator Chaffee came from General Grant's room after being with the patient for some time he said he was looking stronger. This, he thought, was merely on the surface and not real. Chaffee had hopes that the general would live longer than the doctors and his family expected. U. S. Grant, nephew of the general, called during the evening.

Midnight.—General Grant has been asleep since 10 o'clock, waking for five minutes at 11 to take nourishment. Pulse 68, temperature 98.8.
GEO. F. SHRADY, M. D.

Shortly after the midnight bulletin had been issued Dr. Douglas left General Grant's house, and started for home, leaving Dr. Shrady in attendance upon the general. Dr. Douglas said everything indicated a favorable night for the patient.

MORMONISM DEFENDED.

The Presidency of the Church Issues an Epistle to the Faithful.

SALT LAKE, April 5.—At the Mormon General Conference at Logan this afternoon a general epistle to the church was read from Presidents Taylor and Cannon of the first presidency. Referring to the present condition of affairs, and to polygamy prosecutions, it says: Citizens of the highest type of character have been selected as victims of vile persecution, as criminals of the lowest grade. Juries have been selected for the express purpose of convicting men prominent in the church. Their partisan bias is so thoroughly known in the community that, commonly considered, an accusation in a court is now constituted as equal to conviction. The old rule of jurisprudence that the accused be considered innocent until proved guilty is reversed and the burden of proof rests upon the accused. In nearly every instance the judge and the jury were equally with the prosecution in appearing to show his guilt, and requiring him to furnish proofs of his innocence. Jurors are selected of known enmity to the parties accused or the principle involved in the trial. The result has been that a Mormon is always as safe in seeking justice in the infernal regions or from Algerian pirates as in courts of such character. Indictments are found on the flimsiest evidence and the result has been that a reign of terror has prevailed and continues to exist. Considering that they have no chance of a fair trial many considered it better to avoid arrest until there is a prospect of receiving impartial justice. They consider that these violent prosecutions are only intended to provoke the people to commit some overt act, whereby the incoming administration may be embarrassed.

MORE COMPLAINTS OF INJUSTICE.

It refers to the imprisonment of elders in Arizona and considers the proceedings so outrageous that no other man who anticipated being accused dare submit to such treatment, and many left their homes for foreign lands. President Taylor remained at home until, perceiving the determination of certain federal officials here to embarrass and harrass every prominent man, and being informed of threats against his liberty, he deemed it wise under the circumstances to withdraw for a while, which still continued. Neither one of the first presidency had been officially notified or received reliable information from any court officers that a process of any kind had been issued against them. Residences have been invaded and searched, and spotters, spies and deputies have displayed great zeal in their endeavors to ascertain the whereabouts of the leaders. The conclusion is that they wished to get them into their power.

The epistle continues: We are conscious of our innocence of all violations of the laws of God or the constitution, but if laws are enacted to entrap us because of the belief and practice of the revelation God has given, which a court and jury shall decide, we desire that our trial shall at least be upon what the world would call evidence and substantial proof, not religious prejudice and a determination to convict, evidence or none. Should conviction follow in such case we should submit as martyrs have done in every age when God had His people on the earth to persecution inflicted on us for adherence to His laws. We should at least have the same rights as burglars, thieves and murderers. If we are sinners Abraham was also and the ancient prophets. Jesus descended from a polygamic source and many of God's favorite children."

SUTTEE AND POLYGAMY.

It refers to the argument of the British government putting down suttee and that consequently this government should put down polygamy and says: If congressmen would investigate they would see that widow burning only was suppressed in India and that 180,000,000 polygamists have full rights and privileges. Christianity cannot offer anything of an eternal character to compensate us for the abandonment of truth demanded of us. The constitution protects the sacredness of contracts. Plural marriage is a contract of the most sacred character, being for time and eternity.

It refers to the inadequacy of the present system of marriage to save man from dreadful evils. Although millions of honorable men endeavored to adopt a system of morality and virtue and devoted their lives to it, the evils fought steadily increased. The system taught was not God's system, hence it did not meet man's wants.

It refers to the evils of monogamy in strong terms. As it is estimated that male members of the Mormon church practicing polygamy do not exceed two per cent. of the whole membership, it considers it an act of great injustice that the remaining 98 per cent. are abused and outraged, business interests disturbed and values unsettled. In neighborhoods, it is stated, property is jeopardized because of the raid on alleged law breakers. This shows the destitute foundation of the charges made against polygamy. Mormon persecutors have introduced vice of every form since they came here and exhorts Mormons to avoid such ways, also not to retaliate in kind for any persecution or violate any constitutional law.

A committee was appointed to draft resolutions of protest to President Cleveland and the nation, setting forth specifically and in detail the conduct of the federal officials from which the people of Utah are suffering.

THE PANAMA TROUBLE.

Secretary Whitney Decides to Send more Marines to the Isthmus.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The secretary of the navy, in view of later dispatches regarding the troubles at Panama and especially one from Commander Kane of the Galena, has decided to send a further force to the Isthmus by the Acapulco. Following is Commander Kane's dispatch:

COLON, April 4, 1885.

To the secretary of the navy, Washington, D. C.: Vessels now on the way to Aspinwall together with the force on the Isthmus will be sufficient to open and guard transit if supported by two ships at Panama. Without such support an extra force of 500 men will be required. Everything is quiet in Aspinwall and all American property is as well protected as my force will permit. I have 112 officers and men on shore. My command is safe and well. Only one foreigner has been killed so far as known. There are about 100 Colombian government troops here, holding a large number of prisoners and rendering no assistance in preserving order. The railroad company is affording all possible relief to refugees and has sent many out on the line of the road. Transit remains closed. One relief party reached Panama last night at great risk, but has been stopped by insurgents and one person forcibly removed. Wires to Panama are continually being cut. KANE, Commanding.

Secretary Whitney has sent the following dispatch to President Houston of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company: Later dispatches indicate such a condition of things that I conclude to send 500 more men to-morrow. Can you take them?

THINKS BARRIOS IS ALIVE.

NEW YORK, April 5.—T. B. Bunting, late general of division and chief of artillery of Guatemala, said to-day: I wish to enter my protest as to the acceptance as a fact of the report of the death of General Barrios. I was killed precisely in the same manner in Salvador during the war in 1876, on paper. Be sure that when the sword of General Barrios is found on a field of battle his right hand will be found firmly grasping it. As Dr. Zeldivar is not at present practicing medicine, his certificate as to the death of General Barrios is not evidence of the fact. Unless marked and wonderful changes have taken place in Salvador since 1876 it is not possible for Salvador troops, unless in an overwhelming majority, to defeat Guatemalan troops. When General Barrios dies Guatemala will have a loss to mourn greater than has ever happened her before. History will do him more justice than is being done him now.

The Prince of Wales' Coming Visit to Ireland.

THE AFGHAN BOUNDARY DISPUTE

Talk of Changing the French Republic into a Monarchy—Osman Digma Almost Deserted—China's Terms of Peace—Etc

LONDON, April 5.—There is still the keenest anxiety concerning the Prince of Wales' reception in Ireland. The reception at Kingston will be the official beginning of the Prince's Irish tour. A special carriage for reporters will be attached to all royal trains during their progress through Ireland. The Prince is enthusiastic over his trip, and is taking the greatest interest in all preparations. He promises to do everything that is asked of him by his entertainers, and an immense programme is already laid out. He will attend innumerable shows, theaters and bazars and visit docks and harbors, will open various hospitals and other charitable institutions, will personally acknowledge all addresses presented to him, and make speeches whenever and wherever required. He says he is prepared to work every day from dawn to midnight. He seems really anxious to win the affection of the Irish people. He refused all arrangements to give his visit a political aspect, or to commit him to any party or faction. The Prince of Wales and the Princess Alexandra will leave London for Ireland on Tuesday night and will land at Kingston on Wednesday at noon.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

NEW YORK, April 5.—A cable special from London says: The Easter vacation is a period of political stock taking. Gladstone has again weathered serious storms and his prospects for the future are tolerably good. The tories lost their last chance in the last Egyptian debate and they must now wait for the general election, which is pretty certain to take place in the middle of November. Appearances indicate that there will be a large liberal majority. Gladstone will then retire with blessings as loud in his favor as the recent cursings against him. Lord Hartington, with a reputation which is being solidified daily, will succeed him.

CANADA.

THE REBELLION IN THE NORTHWEST.

WINNIPEG, April 5.—Tidings from the north indicate that the state of affairs there is growing worse. As before telegraphed, word from Colonel Irvine to the government has come through by courier and carries bad news. Supplies are scarce, and unless relief gets through very soon the mounted police and all the Prince Albert people will be completely at the mercy of the rebels. Irvine says reinforcements of 1500 men are wanted at Prince Albert immediately. He adds that the country people, owing to threats from the rebels, are leaving their places, and the Teton Sioux are swarming the country and committing depredations while supplies are becoming short. The Sioux referred to are led by Chief White Cap and occupy a reserve near Prince Albert. They are refugees from the United States. Irvine's message was dated March 30. Further word is awaited with great anxiety.

The Hudson Bay Company last night received the following message from Fort Quappelle: "We have just heard from Colonel Irvine. He is waiting for reinforcements. There is no particular news from him. The Teton Sioux are committing some depredations in the Prince Albert district."

The rebels have evidently organized a provisional government. In addition to receipts signed by the lieutenant governor and secretary of Saskatchewan previously mentioned the Hudson Bay Company hold others signed by the assistant commissioner for the provisional government of Saskatchewan. The remainder of "A" and "B" batteries arrived at Winnipeg this afternoon and the whole detachment comprising 228 officers and men with twenty-seven horses and four nine-pound guns went west this evening. A detachment of Toronto troops is expected to-night, and more to-morrow afternoon.

A dispatch from Fort Quappelle states that 180 teams went toward Touchwood from that point this morning and the Ninetieth rifles start in the same direction to-morrow morning.

PRAYERS OFFERED.

TORONTO, April 5.—Special prayers were offered in all the churches for the return of peace in the northwest and for the safety of the soldiers.

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN DISPUTE.

ENGLAND TIRED OF RUSSIA'S TACTICS.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The Tribune's London cable special is as follows: The Anglo-Russian controversy has advanced two important stages this week. The Russian reply to Granville's last dispatch was delivered yesterday and considered by the cabinet to-day. There is reason to believe that such assent as it does contain is qualified by a suggestion for carrying the line of debatable territory still further south. The English are in no mood to stand much more nonsense. The ministry has not relaxed for one hour those varied preparations for war which astonished Russia and convinced her that England is far more ready than she herself. Sir Peter Lumsden, British representative on the Afghan frontier commission, is reported to be indignant over the repeated concessions made by England to Russia. He has been chafing ever since last September on account of Russia's neglect to send her commissioner to join him in delimiting the frontier, and he tendered his resignation as commissioner last January. He was then induced to withdraw his resignation, but it is reported that he has renewed it and insists upon its acceptance.

THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN

Yesterday's issue of THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN was a capital paper. Its literary and general features have never been surpassed by any journal published on the Pacific slope. Sam Simpson's Hermit of the Siskiyou, a story of the lime-stone caves of Josephine county, is executed in the best vein of this writer's art. On the Klamath, by S. A. Clarke, is a sketch of mining life in the days of 1851, giving with a story of love and tragedy many reminiscences of persons still well remembered among us. H. F. Suksdorf furnishes another of his capital articles on Eastern Europe, presenting glimpses of Moscow and of a visit through the Kremlin, with an account of travel in the track of Napoleon's Russian campaign. T. J. Merry, who has just returned from the eastern states, contributes an article on the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago, giving an account of their wonderful growth, particularly that of Chicago, the great western metropolis. Mr. Merry, over his nom de plume of Grizzly, also contributes an article entitled A Half Forgotten Song—a chapter of reminiscences written in his well known style. The paper also contains the first installment of Sweet Home, a story by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps never before published, and one of Madge's letters from San Francisco. These are all original articles written for THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN, and will appear nowhere else. There are many articles of miscellaneous character among them, one which sets forth a discovery that Hon. Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota claims to have made as to the authorship of Shakespeare's plays, another which gives an account of a visit to Capernaum, a third containing an extended talk about the newspapers of New York, and others too numerous to mention. In addition to all this there are all the features of a general newspaper, including local sketches and news, personal and social gossip, and the full telegraphic news of both hemispheres. The call for THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN is increasing very rapidly. It is becoming the favorite issue of the week as it is altogether the best. No one who has seen it will consent to be without it. Send for a specimen copy.

THE FOUR YEARS TERM LAW

At the beginning of the government and up to the passage of the four years term of office bill in 1820, permanence of tenure of office for the mass of the subordinate civil service was accepted as a matter of course. The power of the president to remove had been asserted by the first congress, and it was supposed that this assertion of a tremendous executive prerogative was sufficient to put the civil service fully in the hands of the administration for the time being, so far as was necessary to secure therein honesty, capacity and efficiency. Removals were made only for the good of the service. But the law of 1820 changed this practice by vacating every office once in four years. The history of this law, which had almost the effect of a constitutional amendment in its modification of the American civil service, is very remarkable. It originated in the presidential ambition of William H. Crawford, secretary of the treasury, who drew the bill which appeared in congress at the close of 1819. The ostensible purpose of it was to enable the treasury department to throw out fiscal officers who were short in their accounts. At that time the government had few officers outside the revenue service, and the bill provided that all officers of the federal service, except judicial, should hold office for terms of four years. The bill slipped through both houses with little debate. No one seems to have discerned its far reaching effect. Benton's "Abridgement of Debates" makes no mention of it, at the time, but four years later Benton was chairman of a select committee which unanimously reported in favor of its repeal. But in 1820 the bill attracted very little attention, and was signed by President Monroe, May 15. Instantly every man in the federal service felt his head loosen on his shoulders, and, as Mr. Adams says, all became "ardent Crawfordites." Crawford gained a presidential nomination, by a faction, but failed of an election, so that the political purpose of the bill came to naught.

No one saw the danger from this law quicker than Thomas Jefferson, who in November, 1820, wrote to Mr. Madison totally condemning it as introducing fatal intrigue and corruption, as sapping the constitutional functions of the president, placing every office once every four years at the disposition of the senate, stimulating the constant greed of place, breeding the utmost sycophancy to senators and engaging them in endless cabals to turn out and put in their parasites. Jefferson said the president must have signed the bill without reading it, and John Quincy Adams, who was then secretary of state, says that the president signed the bill unwarily, not perceiving its true character. But he adopted the practice which Mr. Adams carefully followed, of re-nominating any officer at the expiration of his commission unless some official delinquency or unfitness could be proved against him.

At the end of a few years the special committee above referred to on the reduction of executive patronage endeavored to secure a repeal of the law. In the debate which followed in the senate Mr. Webster and Mr. Calhoun both agreed in condemning the law, mainly because they saw in it a perilous enlargement of the executive power. Mr. Webster admitted that some benefit had been derived from the law, that it had "in some instances secured promptitude, diligence and a sense of responsibility." But he thought that the evil results were much greater, and he described plainly and strongly the demoralization and degradation produced by it. The law itself vacates the office and gives the president the means of rewarding a favorite without exercising the power of removal. It thus enables him to displace a satisfactory officer without the responsibility or odium of dismissing him.

It is precisely on this ground, as stated by Mr. Webster, that the law will now operate against civil service reform. It vacates "offices periodically by its own operation," while public opinion would not in all cases tolerate removal. The great evil of change throughout the whole civil service, on the return of the democratic party to power has been in a measure bridled, so far as regards the subordinate service, by the Pendleton law, admitting thereto men of all parties on equal terms. But the president, by the operation of the act of 1820, can deprive the republican incumbents of nearly all the important offices, without the exercise of the "odious power" of removal, and fill their places with democrats.

The next important step forward in civil service reform is the repeal of the four years term law, which was conceived in political sin and enacted through misunderstanding, and has been a curse not only to the civil service, but to the politics of this country. A bill to repeal it was pressed in the house of representatives a year ago, but was opposed and rejected as inopportune so long as the tenure of office acts of 1867 and 1869 remain in force. And it is probable that no attempt to repeal it would succeed unless it shall be accompanied by an abrogation or radical amendment of these more recent laws.

It may be as well to say in this general way to many inquirers, that THE OREGONIAN has no private way of finding out the intentions of Governor Moody respecting the senatorial vacancy, in advance of anybody else. So far as we know, the governor has said not one word looking toward any action in the matter. Possibly he thinks from the action of their chosen representatives that the people do not want another senator. Or perhaps he thinks with THE OREGONIAN, that the matter is really a very trifling one. The weather of the coming week, the price of wheat, the potato crop, the current scandal, and a score of other really important matters, quite dwarf the senatorial vacancy as a subject of public interest. Along toward fall the governor may appoint a senator, or he may call an extra legislative session, and then again, for the acts of governors like the doings of other men, are not to be calculated in advance, he may do neither, or he may do something else. But whatever his plans may be, or if he have any or if he have none, THE OREGONIAN, not knowing, cannot say. We could wish that the situation being otherwise we could answer otherwise—in fact, there are many things in this world we would have otherwise. Well, this is all we know of the matter, and we trust we have put it plainly.

AN INGENIOUS ARGUMENT.

It is to be feared that the Keady liquor law from which so much has been expected in the way of practical limitation, will only be another stumbling block in the way of temperance reform through one of those blunders which seem always to attend upon legislative efforts respecting the liquor traffic. It was designed particularly to protect rural communities through a severe application of the local option principle, which, in a form so loose as to practically be inoperative, always has been the spirit of our liquor laws. The Keady bill, now soon to come into effect, provides that licenses to sell liquor shall be granted by county courts when the petitioner shall have obtained the signatures of a majority of the legal voters of his precinct who actually voted at the general election last preceding his application. It further establishes an annual license rate of $300. A mass of verbiage following, applies only to details of these two leading ideas which form the practical scope of the act.

Naturally enough, the liquor men have desired to find a way out of conditions unfavorable to their interests, and their first step after a harmless discharge of hard words has been to learn the exact meaning and status of the laws which they must meet. A liquor dealer informs us that one of the heaviest firms in the trade here has just received from the hand of a prominent attorney an opinion which declares the new law to be not only of no effect to hinder the liquor business, but a positive advantage to those whom it was designed to put under severe discipline. The new law, so this opinion declares, is practically a reenactment of the old liquor law of 1854 and till now in full authority with an addition of onerous conditions. In the principle of its enactment it is identical with the old law. Both the old and the new prescribe rules of evidence for government of county courts in determining whether or not licenses shall be granted. The difference between these rules is precisely the difference between the acts. But the old law provided penalties for punishment of those who sold without license. The section prescribing the penalty at the codification of our laws was inserted in the crimes act distinct from the law itself, with slight changes of phraseology not changing its meaning, and is there found as section 726 of the criminal code. By a provision of Keady's bill title 1 of chapter 31, which was the old law relating to the granting of licenses to sell liquor, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with the Keady bill are repealed. Now as the Keady bill itself provides no penalty for the selling of liquor without license it is entirely without sanction. The penalties, it is argued, fall upon persons who take license under it and not on those who see fit to sell without license.

The argument is an ingenious one, and the fact that it comes from Mr. J. W. Whalley will give it almost judicial credit. The whole matter will come before the courts for determination, but in any event the local regulations imposed upon the liquor traffic by Portland and other cities cannot be affected, as the Keady bill only applies to unincorporated towns and to such incorporated towns as the legislature has not intrusted in their charters with the power to license or regulate the traffic in liquors. If it shall turn out that the practical effect of the new law is to do away with all regulations upon liquor selling in country precincts, it will be well for the liquor men to use their accidental opportunity with prudent reserve. Any rude advantage taken of a blunder, stupid though it may be, will only be to store up wrath for a day of wrath. On the other hand, it will teach temperance reformers a lesson which THE OREGONIAN has often tried to impress respecting the folly of sentimental legislation.

CLERICAL BLUNDERS.

Readers of this journal have been informed of the blunder in enrolling which puts the new registration law under question as to its legal status. If the matter comes to the courts we have not a doubt that the act will be held in effect in the form unquestionably intended, and as it conforms to the state constitution, but it is bad that the courts must be resorted to. There is no excuse for the stupidity whose blunder makes necessary a judicial interpretation of the new law.

But it seems that there are other blunders. A bill for protection of sheep through taxation of dogs passed both houses, properly furnished with an enacting clause which "somehow" is not to be found in the act as it is enrolled and officially signed. Again the error is a clerical one. Of several mistakes these are most important, and the only ones found up to this time which put finished work in question.

Here is an impressive lesson for the benefit of future legislatures. These vexations grow out of a habit of employing inexperienced people to do work whose importance demands utmost and skillful care. If instead of a crowd of girls, given places on grounds of charity or from simple good nature, half as many professional clerks had been employed, there would have been none of this trouble. At the beginning of the last session when the halls of the state house were thronged with applicants for clerkships who had much better been at home, THE OREGONIAN refrained from saying what was, perhaps, its duty to say, because it feared the truth might wound some who were doing no actual wrong—only making a sad mistake. What was an impropriety at the beginning grew to be something very much worse before the end. It is unpleasant to say what is very unpleasantly impressed upon some of the "lady clerks" at Salem, namely, that a woman ought never to accept a sinecure—sinecures are not always all that they promise. But we now give fair warning, and it will be repeated before the assembling of the next legislature, that considerations of kindness will not again hinder that exposure of improprieties which propriety demands, and those who would not be hit will do well to be out of the way.

GRANT'S NOBLE SIMPLICITY.

In his speech at the convention of 1880 nominating General Grant for the presidency Mr. Conkling referred, as evidence of his great simplicity, to an incident of Grant's visit to Florida, when some one attempted to keep the colored people from ascending a platform to greet their friend, General Grant rebuked the officious committee and said that "where I am they may come." Another incident of similar character is now related. The first time that General Grant left his headquarters, Culpepper Court-house, for Washington city the quartermaster made up a special train to accommodate the sick and such as might have leave of absence, the road being taxed to its utmost capacity to bring forward supplies. One passenger car in the train was reserved for General Grant and such officers as might accompany him. Only two or three officers were with him and they did not attract any special attention as they passed into the car. The general was always the plainest and least ostentatious man in the army. All the cars of the train except the one reserved for General Grant were soon crowded, and many soldiers were standing on the platform of the station. General Grant was sitting alone on the side of the car next to the platform and near the door when a soldier came to the door, and was told by the guard that he could not come into that car. General Grant asked the guard what the man wanted, and was told that he wanted to go to Washington. The general then asked why he was not permitted to come into the car, and was answered that "this car is a special car for General Grant and his staff." The general replied quickly, "Let him come in. I only occupy one seat in this car." This was the first intimation the guard had that General Grant and his staff were in the car. The general then asked what the other men were doing who were standing out on the platform, and being told that they wanted to go to Washington, he said, "Let all who can crowd in get in." The car was soon filled, one private soldier taking a seat beside the general and engaging him in conversation nearly all the way to Alexandria, not knowing with whom he was talking.

The distress and destitution among the lower classes in England is as great as ever. Some startling articles have appeared in the papers describing the tremendous struggle for work in the East end of London. The country is dotted all over with men and women traveling from place to place in search of work or charity. They walk the streets, singing hymns, but not daring to beg for fear of the police—very willing, however, to accept pence, or even shillings, when offered.

In the eastern cities the sugar trade is down. There is plenty of business, but the margin for profit to the refiners and wholesalers is a most infinitesimal. The production of beet sugar, which has been unduly stimulated by heavy bounties, especially in Germany, has operated largely to bring about this depression in prices. It is said that it costs Germany more for the bounties it pays on beet sugar than to support its army.

ANECDOTES OF GRANT.

How he Entered the Union Army—His Acquaintance with E. B. Washburne.

Correspondence of the Salem (Mass.) Gazette.

I have thought that a few anecdotes of General Grant which I have from time to time been related to me during a long residence in Galena might not be uninteresting to your readers. A friend of mine once told me that he walked home with General Grant at the close of the first war meeting which was held in Galena and at which the general presided, and that he said to him: "I am going into this thing. I am going to begin at the foot of the ladder. I am acquainted with the governor of Ohio, and I am going to write to him to-night and ask him to give me a commission." My friend asked him why he did not apply to Governor Yates. He replied that he knew Ohio's governor and should write to him. Before his application was answered E. B. Washburne was down at Springfield and Gov. Yates said to him: "We have got men enough and money enough, but we have no one here to organize. We need a military man here." Mr. Washburne said: "We have got just the very man up at Galena that you want." "Who is he?" "Captain Grant." "Who is Captain Grant?" Mr. Washburne explained that he was a graduate of West Point and had seen service in the Mexican War. "Send Captain Grant down here," was the reply. While Grant was at work at the duty assigned him the colonel of a regiment came in one day and said that he could do nothing with his men and offered to resign in Grant's favor if he would take command of it. Grant went out to see the regiment, and [illegible] satisfied that the men were full of fight and would make good soldiers, accepted the command. Instead of taking his soldiers from Springfield to Quincy by rail he marched them on foot and by the time they reached their destination they knew they had no militia colonel to deal with. Then followed Belmont, Donelson, Shiloh and those other victories which have placed Grant's name with the highest of the world's heroes.

General Grant became acquainted with Mr. Washburne in this wise: Some gentlemen were one evening discussing in one of the stores of Galena a subject relating to the Mexican war and Mr. Washburne coming in, they appealed to him for a decision. He replied that he was in doubt with regard to it and would like to have some information about it. A gentleman remarked, "Mr. Washburne, there is a man back here who will be able to answer the question for you," and took him back and introduced him to Captain Grant. After having gained the information he sought upon it, [illegible] he asked the friend who introduced him, "Who is this Captain Grant?" Upon being told that he was a brother to Orville Grant he said: "He is a very smart man, sir." Before the war in conversing with a friend, he one day expressed himself pretty strongly with regard to the arrogance of some of the southern officers of the army whom he had met in the Mexican war, and said: "There is one of them with whom I would like to get even with, and that is Bishop Polk." After the war had closed he remarked to a friend that when these fellows were running away from him he used to think how he liked [illegible] about them when he was in Galena. Whilst standing near his headquarters while at the south one day one of the natives came up and asked him to point out General Grant to him. He pointed out Dr. Kittoe, of Galena, who was a long time upon his staff. His visitor surveyed the doctor and remarked: "He is a [illegible] old cuss, ain't he?" Upon visiting Galena the general [illegible] jolted the doctor about the compliment that was made upon him. Upon his last visit to Galena a friend asked him how his boys were getting along. He replied: "I think the boys are doing well. I think they are taking money. If they fail it will bankrupt me, for they have all I own." We have the result.

General Superintendent's Office, Yale, B. C., March 28, 1885.

Mr. R. D. Pitt, Portland:

Dear Sir—Your favor of the 21st inst. to hand and note the newspaper items attached. Your letter to "Oregonian" of 20th I concur in. It states matters exactly as they are. Quite a number of the men you sent up here, and whom on your list are classed as laborers and willing to work as such, but on representing themselves to me as mechanics, have been provided for at their respective trades. The man, Peter Boulas, and four others, who arrived here on the 13th, are now working on water tanks at $4.50 per day. Again others whom you have sent up I have placed as foremen. As I have instructed you to send only laborers, and for which, according to your register, none others are sent, this class of men are wanted and can find work immediately upon arrival on the terms as quoted in your letter to the "Oregonian" of the 20th inst. I might state we can place all of the above class, but mechanical labor we don't want. Yours truly,
M. J. HANAY, Gen. Supt.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

CHILDREN'S EASTER SERVICE.—The First Congregational church was filled at an early hour last evening, to see the children's Easter service of flowers and song. Promptly at 7:30 o'clock, the children of the Sunday school entered the audience room in two processions, accompanied by their teachers, and occupied seats in the body of the church reserved for them. There were a large number of them, completely filling the entire center of the room. The service opened with the singing by the choir of an Easter anthem, "Christ, the Lord, is Risen To-day." Then followed a prayer by the pastor, Dr Marvin, who besought God's blessing upon the children of the school. The next thing on the programme was a responsive reading, which was from printed slips distributed in the pews. The superintendent and the school joined in the responses with great earnestness and effect. The subject of the reading was the appropriate one of "The Resurrection." Next in order was a song by the school, "Ring the Good Bells." After this came the decorating of the cross with flowers by the children. Each child went to the platform and, after reciting a suitable verse from scripture, festooned the cross of cedar and ferns a handful of flowers. When the cross was decorated it stood forth a mass of fragrant and beautiful flowers in the center of the platform. Then Miss Carrie Shindler sang "Cross and Crown," holding in her hand an exquisite crown of flowers, which was placed upon the cross, after which the congregation and school joined in the hymn, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory." The recitation by little May Borg and Isabella Lansing was peculiarly sweet and expressive. The school sang "The Children's Army Song," after which the pastor, Dr Marvin, presented an Oxford bible, with concordance and maps, to Miss Isabella Lansing for learning the largest number of verses from the book of John, and testaments to Frank M Warren Clint B Hanthorn and Maria Louisa Borg, and the superintendent, Mr James Steel, presented a bible to his daughter, Carrie Steel, who had earned the book by committing verses to memory, and testaments to Annie S Campbell and David W Borg. During the offertory by the choir, "In Dreams I Heard the Seraphs," an offering was received for the school, and the exercises closed with the song, "Is My Name Written There?" and benediction by the pastor. The service was one of unusual beauty, and will be long remembered by all who witnessed it.

ONE PLAGUE THAT OREGON HASN'T.—Farmers, notwithstanding that they are "the most independent men in creation," have a few troubles as well other people, though in this highly favored state their troubles are reduced to a minimum. One of the greatest pests which annoys our farmers and causes them great loss, is the wild oats which overruns grain fields and chokes out the good grain. But even this is a trifle compared to the rabbit pest which afflicts the farmers in a portion of Australia. Some years since an English immigrant to Australia took along a favorite hutch of rabbits which were allowed to run at large. They increased with the accustomed rapidity of rabbits and spread over the land like a plague. They have become a most terrible pest and the great conundrum of Australia is how to get rid of them. To effectually bar the progress of this terrible scourge a fence of wire netting is to be built, 1000 miles in length, at a cost of £60 per mile, making the whole cost of the fence $300,000. This is merely to keep the rabbits within their present bounds. This looks like a large sum, but it is not so much as was paid last year in bounties for killing rabbits. So Oregon farmers have cause to be thankful that they are not inflicted with rabbits.

HEAVY SUIT.—Hon N. T. Caton of Walla Walla arrived here yesterday on his way to Olympia, to take evidence in the case of Harkness vs. the N. P. R. R. Co. and others. This case is one of considerable importance, and the work of taking testimony in it has been going on ever since the 15th of January last at Walla Walla. Harkness sues the N. P. R. R. to recover $130,000. It seems that Harkness, Morrison & McMicken entered into a contract with the N P R R. Co to furnish 10,000,000 feet of logs and 130,000 railroad ties for the Pend d'Oreille division. They had gotten out a great part of their contract and had it at the mouth of the Yakima river when a flood came down and swept the timber away. The railroad company took charge of the matter, caught the logs along the river, cut them up with portable mills and secured the lumber they wanted. The great expense of this work and the large sum paid by the company to the laborers employed by Harkness, Morrison & McMicken in getting out the logs about covered the value of the lumber received by the railroad company. Harkness, alleging collusion between the company and his partners, Morrison and McMicken, to defraud him, brought suit to recover the sum of $130,000.

W. C. T. U. ENTERTAINMENT.—Rev E W Caswell spoke at the W. C. T. U. hall Saturday night on "Constitutional Prohibition." He commanded the rapt attention of his audience, which was large in number, and showed its appreciation by frequent and hearty applause. The speaker was quite as attractive and forcible in his manner when reading from manuscript as when extemporizing. He is a logical speaker, and possesses the happy faculty of closing without becoming tedious while handling a matter-of-fact subject. Mr Caswell's address was followed by a recitation by Ivy Morgan, who rendered, in a happy manner the piece, "Entertaining a Missionary." The applause from the audience brought her to the rostrum a second time, when she completely carried the audience by her rendering of "Entertaining her big Sister's Beau." The social at the close was much enjoyed by all as it gave the opportunity to examine the handsome shield engraved by Philip Lampton, of the firm of F. S. Chadbourne & Co., and the fine oil painting of Mt. Hood, executed by Mrs. Pierce. Altogether the evening was one of evident satisfaction to all present.

A TERRIBLE FALL.—On Thursday last Thos. Healy, bridge foreman on the Rocky mountain division of the Northern Pacific railroad, while at work with a gang of men upon Marent viaduct, a few miles this side of Missoula, fell from the top of the structure to the bottom of the gulch, the terrible hight of 224 feet, and was instantly killed. Nearly every bone in his body was broken. The Marent viaduct is the greatest piece of trestle work on the Northern Pacific, and is without exception the highest wooden structure known to railroad engineering. At the time of the "last spike" driving, the train bearing the excursionists stopped at Marent gulch, and gave those who were not too timid an opportunity to walk out over this dizzy hight. Many a stout heart quailed as the eye looked down into the far extending and intricate net work of beams and stringers, and the account of the foregoing accident will bring a shudder to nearly every one who has stood upon Marent viaduct.

LEG BROKEN.—Last evening while John Melbus, a freight brakeman on the Northern Pacific, was assisting to make up a train at the Kalama freight depot, he missed his footing and fell, his left foot being caught in such a manner that the car wheel came against his leg just above the ankle, tearing the flesh away and breaking both bones. Fortunately the car stopped before passing completely over the leg. He was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital where his injury was attended to by Dr. Saylor. It is hoped that the foot will be saved, but on account of the laceration of the flesh the wound is a very dangerous one and amputation may be necessary.

TARDY JUSTICE.—The St Paul Pioneer Press of March 30th contains a column communication from Portland, explaining at this late day how it was simply impossible during the memorable snow-storms of December and January for the O. R. & N. Co to have cleared the track one day sooner than it was done. The article was in answer to one published in February by the same paper, reflecting very unjustly and severely on the O. R. & N. management. The correspondent particularly pays to Mr. H. S. Rowe, the superintendent, the tribute of truth by saying that he did everything that any man could do in the battle with the elements.

DID NOT WHIP AN EDITOR.—An encounter took place a few days since between Frank Spencer, of the Cheney Sentinel, and Sol Kaminsky, a merchant of that town. Spencer published an article reflecting on the moral character of Kaminsky, and a short time after, passing Kaminsky's store, the latter rushed out upon him with a pick handle. A rough-and-tumble fight took place, Kaminsky getting his face scratched in the affair. Both parties were arrested and Kaminsky was fined and afterward bound over to keep the peace, and now order reigns in Cheney.

DEATH OF ROBERT NEWCOMB.—News was received here yesterday of the death of Robert Newcomb, grand recorder of the A. O. U. W., who went to southern California some time since in hope of benefiting his health. He lived while returning on a steamer from Los Angeles to San Francisco. His remains will probably be brought here for interment. Mr. Newcomb has been long a sufferer from asthma.

MAKING FAST TIME.—The stock train on the Oregon Short Line, carrying Dooley & Kirkman's shipment of twenty car loads of cattle from Walla Walla, passed McCammon station, Idaho, April 2, having made the run of 456 miles in twenty hours, which is believed to be the fastest freight time ever made.

FIRST SHOWER IN A MONTH.—There have been symptoms of rain for several days past, but the clouds failed to shower their garnered moisture down till last evening, when a smart shower fell for a few minutes. Rain would be welcome now and beneficial to the country, although the crops are not suffering. The warm days have been followed by cool nights, and the ground is still moist, although plowing in some places had to cease. Every one has confidence that rain will come before anything suffers.

ADDITIONAL FACILITIES.—The O. R. & N. Co. will at once commence the construction of the following improvements on the Columbia and Palouse branch of their line. A side track, platform and cattle yards at Endicott, side track at Diamond's on Union Flat, and another at James Warmouth's place, three miles this side of Colfax. These additional facilities will be appreciated by the residents of the country tributary to this line, which is rapidly increasing its products.

WHY IT WAS DISMISSED.—The case in the U. S. district court against Jesse Waters, charged with trespassing on the Klamath reservation has been dismissed. The alleged trespass consisted in Waters driving his cattle upon the reservation, but the evidence to sustain his charge was lacking. Two of the witnesses for the prosecution were unwilling ones, and the third had not the best character in the world to sustain his testimony, being under indictment for murder.

PUTTING IN A NEW CASING.—The artesian well being bored on W. S. Ladd's farm back of East Portland is now down 630 feet. The bore is in the same soft crumbling rock which was struck at about 200 feet, and the contractor is about to put down a new casing, as the caving in of the sides of the bore cause him trouble. It is to be hoped that nothing will interfere with the successful completion of the well.

WHEAT THIRTY INCHES HIGH.—A fine sample of wheat from eastern Oregon was received at this office yesterday. It is nearly two feet six inches in hight and is a fair specimen from the growing crop on a field of 800 acres on Eureka Flat, belonging to H. W. Babcock, county commissioner of Walla Walla. The fields of grain in the Inland Empire must be a pleasing sight to emigrants arriving from the frozen east.

TELEGRAPH LINES TO COLFAX.—Charles B. Hopkins, of the Colfax Gazette, is in the city, en route for San Francisco. The object of his journey is to procure material for establishing telegraph lines connecting Colfax with all the principal points in the Palouse and Spokane sections. He has already a line working between Colfax and Almota, and intends to establish a network of them all around Colfax.

BASEBALL.—The Doilet baseball club was beaten yesterday at the oaks in East Portland by a picked nine, the score standing ten to seven in a six inning game. This score is to be accounted for by the fact that some of the men who only appeared on paper at the previous match with the Doilets, were on hand in person this time, and knocked the [illegible] from under the Doilets.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will announce a decision to-day in the case of the Pacific Rolling Mills Company against the City View Park Railway Company upon the exceptions to the answer.

BOOMING OREGON WEATHER

The following associated press dispatch was published in all the St. Paul and Chicago papers of April [illegible], which arrived here yesterday, with glowing heads, and has no doubt had the wide circulation of the great journals further east:

PORTLAND, Or., March 31.—The weather for the month just closed has been the most remarkable in the history of the state. The lowest thermometer [illegible] the highest 7[illegible] the mean 52. The rain 6[illegible] of an inch. All vegetation is in a most advanced state. White lilies and wistaria, which are the principal flowers used on memorial day, are now in full bloom. All the fruit trees have [illegible] blossoms and the earth's surface presents the appearance of the middle of May. The heavy snow of December and January made a wonderful protection to crops and will [illegible] grass this year is more abundant than it was thirty years ago before the cattle had made inroads on it. The average immigration has been 60 or 70 per day during the month and excursionists from the east [illegible]

Much more might have been said with truth, but the press correspondent probably considered that people in Chicago, where the lake at this time is frozen solid sixteen miles from shore, could not be made to believe it. Just the same, the dispatch can not help but direct a great deal of attention to this glorious climate.

BEAUTIFYING THE NEW MARKET

What the Frescoers Have done on the Auditorium during the past week

At the exceptionally early hour of two o'clock P. M. an early reporter of the OREGONIAN strolling down First street noticed a board in front of the New Market Theatre with the notice of "No admittance." Being of a rather inquisitive turn of mind he [illegible] scratching his [illegible] sign of "No smoking" and walked right in.

The auditorium was a perfect net work of scaffolding and staging through which glimpses of part of the decorations in process of being [illegible] But whatever he did see [illegible] [illegible] that the place will in future be more deserving of the name of a temple of the Muses than it has heretofore been. The large dome [illegible] with its ventilating flat work seemed to have been a great obstacle to the symmetry of the ceiling, as it is put in the center as its name might imply but twenty six feet toward the stage, and of too colossal a size. This difficulty however is admirably overcome by the ingenious distribution of the various panels of which the ornamentation of the ceiling is composed. The body color of the center is old gold with a liberal [illegible] surrounded by various ornamental panels in light sky blue the latter bearing conventionalized representations of flying birds. Around all this is a border of Turkish red with a light [illegible] ornament. The dominating color of the ceiling is a warm greenish gray ornamented with four medallions with flying Cupids holding cornucopias and scattering leaves and flowers. The medallions are cornered with brown panels bearing griffins of a lighter tone by terra [illegible] blue and red and circles of green vines. The large cove between the walls and ceiling is ornamented with Cupids swinging wreaths with large shells between each. The main color of the walls is a shade of the now so fashionable [illegible] color laid out in quatrefoil patterns, the spaces between them being of a yellowish [illegible] with a brown ornament. The quatrefoils themselves have ornaments alluding faintly to the latest historical events namely a British lion rampant being swallowed by a conventionalized crocodile, and a Webfoot trying to catch a salmon.

The proscenium boxes and the windows are in white and gold and the railings of the dress circle white and pink picked out by a dark greenish grey. Great credit is due to the painters Messrs. Berger & Buck for effecting this wonderful change within the short time of one week.

While this is being done by the owners Mr D. J. Thompson and M. S. Burrell the manager Mr J. P. Howe is having a new orchestra railing of iron with red rope hangings put up, new carpeting put down and the seats renovated.

Our reporter had scarcely time to observe all this when he was startled by a pot of paint followed by a two inch plank falling with a great deal of noise from a hight of about fifty feet, and thinking it to the best interest of the public to save his valuable life in order to be able to supply other items quickly but quickly took his departure.

THOMAS OVERFELT'S DEATH

BAKER CITY April 4

The sudden and violent death of Thomas Overfelt yesterday has caused much sorrow in this community where he was universally liked. He was the managing partner of Fox & Miller's vast cattle and ranche interests in this and Grant county. He was driving in company with a Mr. Griffith from Clover Creek to Canyon City. The team was fractious and hard to control. They were just on the point of descending a steep hill when the horses gave a sudden lunge throwing Griffith from the wagon. At the same instant Mr. Overfelt grasped for the lines but in some way was caught in the wheel and fairly dragged to death being mutilated in a shocking manner. Mr. Griffith followed, and found him lying alongside the road, about three quarters of a mile from the top of the hill gasping for breath. He never spoke, and it was soon all over. His body was brought here to-day and will probably be buried to-morrow.

THE STAGE

THE TIVOLI.—Dan Morris Sullivan and his Mirror of Ireland open out to-night at the Tivoli theater. Here is what the San Francisco Call said of the entertainment: "Dan Morris Sullivan and Jessie are both character artists and mimics of sterling quality and their performances kept the audience in a continual roar."

THE CASINO.—"Puritans" drew a large house at the Casino again last night. This charming opera will be given again to-night for the last time by special request. To-morrow evening will be presented the Bohemian Girl.

Turn the rascals out has been the cry of all party organs and the slogan has served the democratic worker to put forth his utmost exertions to secure a party triumph. # COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, April 4

The weather continues clear and warm. There is no indication of any change to rain. In some parts farmers report the ground as becoming very dry, but they entertain no fear of damage. Spring sowing is about completed.

General trade is of a quiet character, yet very satisfactory. The merchandise movement retains free proportions, while finances are in very good shape. Failures over the northwest for three months past showed little decrease in numbers, but the sums involved by these failures aggregated but about half the amount for the last quarter of 1884. Compared with California or any other section the northwest is in good financial condition, as the decrease in failures is much more marked.

For the eight months of the cereal year now gone by there has been received here 171,767 tons of wheat and 9,[?]52 tons flour. In the same time shipments of wheat were 156,563 tons and 24,110 tons flour. Between receipts and shipments there is an apparent difference of 15,204 tons wheat and 2415 tons flour, the local consumption not considered. Of the wheat a large quantity was made into flour by local mills, one mill sending out two and a half cargoes as flour, besides having one vessel cleared this month not included in above shipments, and supplying a home demand. The actual stock of wheat and flour now here is small, probably no more than enough to load chartered tonnage. The inward and outward movements are nearly even, after deducting local consumption. To fill the incoming fleet of 7138 registered tons, if it is to be loaded this season, will require new purchases of 10,000 to 18,000 tons wheat.

Overland receipts include 1 cs extract, 1 bbl baking powder, 50 bbls herring, 17 cs can fish, 41 pkgs tobacco, 40 qr, 110 hf beer, 1256 kgs nails, 900 cs coal oil.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 1684 ctls wheat, 1812 bbls flour, 684 ctls oats, 100 ctls bran, 32 ctls millstuff, 2030 sks potatoes, 952 lbs wool, 12,858 lbs hides, 95 cs eggs, 33 bxs fruit, 15 pkgs butter and 3658 bbls lime, 131,563 lbs hops not previously reported. Also 1591 ctls wheat, 805 bbls flour, 320 sks flaxseed, 11 pkgs butter from the eastern section.

FREIGHT—The Tillie E Starbuck, iron, is under charter to two or three mills for joint account. The Cassandra, iron, is on the disengaged list here, arrival date having passed on Monday. There is no demand for tonnage and the market is without interest. The port list comprises 5461 tons chartered, 4004 tons iron disengaged and 2267 tons wood disengaged. To arrive 7133 tons will be due this and next month and 4042 tons too far off to be available this season. It is expected that few vessels will be added to the list for this season's arrival, as there is no promising request for grain and a salmon freight is in the future. The Kenton sailed to-day with a flour cargo, the Overdale comes from Callao and the Lobo and Beech Holm are withdrawn.

WHEAT—Advices meagre to-day and local market very dull. Valley may be quoted $1 20@22½, with anything more very uncertain even for round lots. The highest figure offered during the late flurry is now said to have been $1 26¼ here. In the interior $1 25¼ was paid by a miller. Holders are not offering their products now and no sales are reported for nearly a week.

FLOUR—Demand fair and values steady. Nothing of new interest to note.

MILLSTUFFS—Offerings are free and dealers being well stocked sales are slow. Jobbing values without change.

OATS—The market has a steady front, sellers holding back somewhat, but not so much as to shorten supplies. California weather must cut an important figure in values for a time. Quote feed 30@33c.

PROVISIONS—Market well supplied and last quoted prices hardly steady. Receipts of eastern light.

POTATOES—Fair business doing at 1 ½@30c; good garnet chiles bringing 30c. The outgoing steamer has a large shipment. Buying to-day is rather slow.

ONIONS—Hard sorts wanted at [illegible]c. Soft neglected.

POULTRY—Chickens steady at $4@4 50 for average coops. Other sorts dull and unchanged.

EGGS—Receipts rule lighter and stocks are getting low. Quote market firmer at 13@14c.

PRESS COMMENT.

Indianapolis Journal: There is yet a putrid smell of small pox and yellow fever about the democratic party.

Washington Republican: One reason why the democrats of the interior are not tearing things to pieces is that they are temporarily paralyzed with rage.

Buffalo Express: The unnatural alliance between the two will never cease to breed misunderstanding until the democratic tiger has swallowed the mugwump calf. And even then it is feared the calf will disagree with his swallower.

Minneapolis Tribune: President Cleveland will receive a magnificent salmon in time for next Sunday's dinner from Portland, Oregon. He has had so many sharks and suckers about him of late that the change will be quite a relief.

Philadelphia Press: The English people are excusable for having forgotten the Mr. Phelps who has just been appointed minister to the court of St. James. They haven't heard of him since he was poisoning the pure air of Vermont with his vilification of Abraham Lincoln twenty years ago.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: If among other things the president's civil service policy should tend to the withdrawal of the people from the perennial scramble for small offices, it would be worth all the effort devoted to the work and serve to minimize an evil that has been only too apparent in the United States for two generations.

Brooklyn Times: We can only say that in common with tens of thousands of citizens all over the country we deplore the fact that Mr Beecher, if he has not survived his fame, seems to have outlived the clear vision, the courageous spirit and the generous and noble instincts that made the Henry Ward Beecher we have known in the past so dear to his countrymen.

Charleston News (Dem): A story was going the rounds a few weeks ago that Mr Cleveland had said that under the new regime there must be no resurrections. Either this story has no foundation or somebody besides Mr Cleveland must have controlled recent appointments. Else, whence should come up a political fossil like Mr McLane, the newly-appointed minister to France, or General Jackson, the new minister to Mexico, who belongs assuredly to the post-pliocene if not to the pliocene age of American politics?

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron will restore lost vitality.

Mrs Amy Thomas, [illegible] at Dallas, Polk county, has [illegible] from grief at the death of her mother, and was taken to the asylum at Salem last week.

One of the heaviest showers of rain that ever fell in that section visited Glendale and Sterlingville precincts, Jackson county, Wednesday evening. Crops are consequently looking finely there.

A H Denny, residing near Bethel, has recently grubbed up the largest silver leaf tree in Oregon, set out by W P Watson, ex-president of the state agricultural society, in 1850. It measured eight feet seven inches in circumference two feet above the ground.

Mrs Nancy Nichols died at her home on the [illegible] Luckiamute, Polk county, April [illegible] aged 7[?] years. Mrs Nichols, in company with her husband, crossed the plains and came to Oregon in 1844. They settled in Polk county in that year and have lived there ever since.

Considerable excitement is felt over the discovery of a large amount of quartz near the head of [illegible] creek in Josephine county, which is supposed to be rich with silver. An assay of some of the ore made in Portland shows it to be of a very promising character. A number of claims have already been located.

Last Sunday, March [illegible], J C Campbell of Salt creek celebrated the 75th anniversary of his age. In honor of the occasion he invited all his relatives to be present. His children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, altogether numbering thirty eight. Mr Campbell is one of Oregon's early pioneers, having settled in Salt creek in 1843.

IDAHO.

A line of railroad is projected from Kelton on the Central Pacific to Shoshone on the Oregon Short Line, to cross Snake river at Shoshone Falls.

The boiler of the Pioneer sawmill at Littlefield exploded on the morning of March 2 with disastrous results, destroying the mill proper entirely, but doing no damage to the planing and shingle departments attached. Fortunately no one was injured, though those at the mill had a miraculous escape.

The Missoula gulch people made a clean-up of fifty ounces on Wednesday, which at $17 an ounce paid by the bank here would realize $850. This handsome yield was the result of two weeks' ground sluicing and hydraulicing, the latter, however, being only employed several days. Only a very narrow strip of bedrock was cleaned.

WASHINGTON.

The Steilacoom insane asylum contains 16[?] patients.

The assessor of Lewis county states the population of that county is 700[?].

Every sawmill in Lewis county is running on full time now and receiving full orders for lumber.

Excitement over the mines near Chewelah continues. Several rich strikes of galena have been made recently.

Mr F A Willson of Arcadia and Mr Joel Risden of Olympia, both pioneers, died last week. Mr Willson was 54 years old and Mr Risden [illegible]. Mr Risden came to Olympia from Illinois in 1853, crossing the plains in that year and coming to the sound with the first immigrant train across the Natchez pass of the Cascade mountains.

MONTANA.

Fifty-three gold deposits, amounting to 13,030 ounces, were made in the Helena Assay Office up to March 1st, 1884. Up to March 1st, 1885, 109 deposits were made, amounting to 2160[?] ounces, showing an increase over 1884 for the same period of 10[?]4 ounces.

THE EAST SIDE

HENRY SIMMONS ARRESTED.

The whereabouts of Henry Simmons, the man shot by Dillon Myers at Mollie Thayer's bagnio on Water street, were discovered by Marshal [illegible] Friday night last, and promptly placed under arrest by that officer for assault with a deadly weapon, under a warrant issued from the recorder's court. He gave bonds in $500 to appear for examination when the nature of his wound would permit. The crisis of the danger from his wound has passed and his recovery is only a question of time. His condition was such Saturday as to permit his going to the barber shop by carriage and undergoing treatment. It will be remembered that at the examination of Myers the testimony of several witnesses went to show that Simmons attempted to attack Myers with a penknife, when the latter discharged his pistol in self defense. If this prove to be the truth and Simmons is found guilty as charged, the effect will be to palliate Myers' offense. It develops that late on the night of the fracas Simmons was taken from the house by several friends and conveyed to the residence of a relative in the eastern part of the city, where he has been ever since.

The festive Mollie Thayer has also been arrested and placed under bonds to answer the charge of keeping a bagnio. She was arrested in Portland by Jailer Dougherty under a warrant issued by the recorder of East Portland, and arraigned in Justice Davis' court.

EASTER SERVICES.

The attendance at St David's Episcopal church yesterday morning was so large that a number of extra seats had to be provided. The chancel and auditorium were beautifully adorned with natural flowers arranged in appropriate emblems of various kinds. A profusion of flowers adorned the font and were surmounted by a miniature representation of the church building in cedar evergreens—carved in design and very neatly executed. The rector was assisted in the service by Rev James Daly. There was full Easter service with communion and special anthems for the occasion. The rector preached an impressive and effective sermon from Colossians iii 4. The offering, which is to be applied on the church debt, amounted to $300. In the evening the regular Easter festival of the Sunday school occurred. There was singing of carols by the children and an address by Bishop Morris. Previous to the address Emma Sellwood, in neat language, presented to the bishop the Easter offering of the Sunday school for home and foreign missions, consisting of $46 50.

EPISCOPAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The following announcements were made at St David's church yesterday: Annual meeting of the Women's Guild at 2 P M, to-day (Monday); also annual meeting of the parish for the election of vestrymen, etc., at 7:30 this evening. Bishop Paddock will assist the rector at the Friday evening service.

NOTES.

THE MUGWUMP APPOINTMENT

A Report from the Democratic Camp About It.

[Special to the St Louis Globe-Dem.]

WASHINGTON, March 3[?].—To-day's nominations have added fuel to the flame of party discontent and a regular conflagration may ensue. The nomination of Henry G. Pearson to succeed himself as postmaster of New York city elicited words of condemnation on every hand among democrats. Prominent senators, among the democratic party, did not hesitate to say that it was a great mistake. Congressman Springs of New York said that every democratic senator who is moved by a feeling of allegiance to his party ought to refuse to assent to Pearson's confirmation. He declared that they ought to go further and fight the nomination to the bitter end. While democratic politicians are wild over the renomination of Pearson, the civil service reformers and so-called mugwumps are in high spirits. They say Cleveland is coming up to their expectations. When Mr Beecher was here he had a personal interview with the president. All New York mugwumps, headed by Carl Schurz and George W. Curtis and supported by the Times, have been fighting for him, selecting his as [illegible]

A TEST CASE.

The fight, however, was one of principle rather than for the man. They thought that if his case did not recommend itself, then there would be no hope for anybody, and civil service reform principles would have to go to the wall. But there is said to be something more than mugwump influence behind Pearson's retention. The county democracy are said to have had a hand in it. It is hinted, however, that Mayor Grace, who called upon the president, Secretary Manning and the postmaster-general yesterday, was working for Pearson. The county democracy want the collectorship and don't want the postoffice, but they

DON'T WANT TAMMANY

To get any recognition in the city, and it is alleged that they were willing to let a republican stay in the postoffice if in return Hubert O. Thompson would be made collector and the organization would also be given the naval office. It does not appear, however, that Mr Cleveland has made many promises, and it is said that he wants to appoint Silas Burt, a republican formerly but now a mugwump, to the collectorship to succeed Robertson, a republican. It is said that Pearson's reappointment is the result of a trade; that it is Pearson's reward for not closing the New York postoffice on election day. Pearson's friends, of course, indignantly deny this.

In our judgment this appointment will produce a

THE MAN WHOM LAMAR HONORS

Jacob Thompson's Story of His Own Villainy and Operations in Canada during the Rebellion as Recorded by Himself.

New York Tribune.

Secretary Lamar's order that the [illegible] of the interior department (Cleveland [illegible]) should be [illegible] and the [illegible] and clerks of the department receive a holiday with pay in honor of that departed traitor and pirate and thief, Jacob Thompson, secretary of the interior under Buchanan, has naturally revived interest in Thompson's mission to Canada during the rebellion and the dastardly operations in which he was there engaged in behalf of the confederacy. Among the letters written by Thompson to the rebel government during his operations was the following. It tells of the powder [illegible] things he was organizing throughout the north with the [illegible] for the organization of which Thompson furnished the [illegible] funds; of the partly successful plot to release rebel prisoners on Johnson's Island and of the attempts more or less successful to burn northern steamships and northern cities—especially New York, where the unsatisfactory results from the use of Greek fire greatly annoyed Thompson, and as he says confirmed his contempt for that much as such incendiary agent. We omit those parts of the letter which merely reveal the man whom Secretary Lamar delights to honor as an active conspirator, traitor and reproduce those parts which brand him as an inhuman monster.

TORONTO, C. W., Dec 3, 1864.—The Hon J P Benjamin, Secretary of State. Sir: Several times have I attempted to send you communications, but I have no assurance that any of them has been received. I have relaxed no effort to carry out the objects the government had in view in sending me here. I had hoped at different times to have accomplished more, but still I do not think my mission has been altogether fruitless. At all events we have afforded the northwestern states the amplest opportunity to throw off the galling dynasty at Washington and openly take ground in favor of state rights and civil liberty. * * *

This [illegible] was insisted upon on the ground that it was necessary to hold a series of public meetings to prepare the public mind, and appointments for public peace meetings were made—one at Peoria, one at Springfield and one at Chicago, the 16th. The first one was [illegible] and to make it a success I agreed that some pecuniary aid was necessary, should be furnished [illegible] It was held and was a decisive success. [illegible] those who attended [illegible] on [illegible] peace.

Soon after [illegible] Mr Minor Major visited me and represented himself as an accredited agent from the Confederate States to destroy steamboats on the Mississippi river, and that his operations were suspended for want of means. I advanced to him $2000 in federal currency, and soon afterward several boats were burned at St Louis, involving an immense loss of property to the enemy. He became suspected, as he represented to me, of being the author of this burning, and from that time both he and his men have been hiding, and consequently have done nothing. Money has been advanced to Mr Churchill of Cincinnati to organize a corps for the purpose of incendiarism in that city. I consider him a true man, and although as yet he has effected but little, I am in constant expectation of hearing of effective work in that quarter.

Previous to the arrival of Lieutenant-Colonel Martin and Lieutenant Heady, bringing a unsigned note from you, all the different places where our prisoners are confined—Camp Douglas, Rock Island, Camp Morton, Camp Chase, Elmira—had been thoroughly examined, and the conclusion was forced upon us that all efforts to release them without an outside co-operation would bring disaster upon the prisoners and result in no good. All projects of that sort were abandoned, except that at Camp Douglas, where Captain Hines still believed he could effect their release. We yielded to his firmness, zeal and persistence, and his plans were plausible, but treachery defeated him before his well laid schemes were developed. Having nothing else on hand, Colonel Martin expressed a wish to organize a corps to burn New York city. He was allowed to do so, and a most daring attempt has been made to fire that city, but their reliance on the Greek fire has proved a misfortune. It cannot be depended on as an agent in such work. I have no faith whatever in it, and no attempt shall hereafter be made under my general directions with such material.

During my stay in Canada a great amount of property has been destroyed by burning. The information brought me as to the perpetrators is so conflicting and contradictory that I am satisfied that nothing can be certainly known. Several claims have been presented at the war office for payment for this kind of work, but not one dollar should be advanced on any proof adduced until all the parties concerned may have an opportunity for making out and presenting proof. Several parties claim to have done the work at St Louis, New Orleans, Louisville, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and at Cairo.

* * * For the future, discarding all dependence on the organizations in the northern states, our efforts, in my judgment, should be directed to inducing those who are conscripted in the north, and who utterly refuse to join the army to fight against the confederate states, to make their way south to join our service. It is believed by many that at least a number sufficient to make up a division may be secured in this way for our service before spring, especially if our army opens up a road to the Ohio. Some are now on their way to Corinth, which at present is the point of rendezvous. Also to operate on their railroads, and force the enemy to keep up a guard on all their roads, which will require a large standing army at home; are to burn whenever it is practicable, and thus make the men of property feel their insecurity and tire them out with the war. The attempt on New York has produced a great panic, which will not subside at their bidding. * * * Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. THOMPSON.
